COMMENCEMENT

When I look back on high school, I can understand why people say that your high school years are the best years of your life. It is here that we have gathered the memories that form the stories that we will tell over and over again to our friends and family, and almost inevitably to our children in the future...For who, upon hearing the story, would believe that a mere mortal could possess the power to convince dozens of disbelievers that, under his hypnotic spell, they could peer out into the audience and see hundreds of naked people calmly sitting there? Or who would believe that selected members of our esteemed football team would willingly strut across the stage for the sole purpose of displaying their beer bellies and hairy backs for the amusement of envious onlookers? To take the story one step further, who would believe that the football team went undefeated in '93? Well, I suppose anyone who knew we had no football season in '93 would believe it but other than that I'm not sure...

Probably the most significant thing about our high school years is that it is in high school where we form the friendships that will last a lifetime. Our friends were always there to cry with us, to laugh with us, and to laugh at us if we ever dropped a plate in the cafeteria. It was with our friends that we dreamed about the future while at the same time trying to live every minute of the present to the fullest. Our friends are the ones who struggled through the hard times with us, and tonight is proof that we all made it through in pretty good shape.

We all have different dreams and I'm certain that every one of us has what it takes to make those dreams come true. Maybe, then, we should say that our years in high school have been the best so far, because, for this graduating class, I know there are many wonderful years to come.

CHRISTMAS

STRANGELY FINE

It is fresh and new, wet with a bite.
This describes the weather, yes wet with rain and Dew.

It is still early, a time for private thought
A strange, yet fresh world, that's what I thought.
I found it this morning, before the sun was up.
A quiet Sunday morning, just me and my coffee cup.
It's funny, I'm not lonesome, even though I am alone.
Must be 'cause it's Sunday and I am home.
If I want I can mull over the thoughts in my mind,
Or I can just sit here, fourteen and strangely fine.

Anonymous

PLEDGE OF LOVE

Half heaven, half heartache
Yet I'm gonna be strong
Cause I will always love you
Till the very moment you're gone
My past becomes present
With every breath that I take
For my broken heart
Is full of heartache.

Looking through the eyes of love
I just wanted you to know
Just how much I love you
And never want to let you go
It's a memory that just won't quit
The memory of you and me
This is my pledge of love
For all the world to see.

Through poems, prayers and promises
The heart is a lonely hunter
You are the one for me
And there will never be another
Just the thought of losing you
It scares me half to death
Because if I someday lose you
I will take just one last breath.

So I love you very much
And now that I've let you know
I will pledge my love just one last time
And then I will let you go.

Melissa Mattingley

I LOVE YOU

I stand here
 In a corner
 Watching you
 You stand there
 Talking to friends
 In that easy-going manner you have
 You're my friend
 But you don't know me
 Not the real me
 I love you.
 The way your hair is "just so" drive me crazy
 The way your eyes crinkle just a little
 When you smile
 So sexy . . .
 I love every part of you
 I love the way you use your brain
 I love your laugh, your sense of humor . . .
 It's true, you tower over me, I am but small
 And our match is quite mixed
 But if you were only mine
 You'd never want to leave
 Because . . . I love you
 I love you
 But I'm standing here, in a dark corner
 Watching you standing there
 Not watching me.

CROSS COUNTRY

FACES

ALIVE IN '95!

Mr. Capes came to SCITS in 1961. He constantly contributed to the school in his teaching and extra curricular work. From developing a debating club to coaching basketball, he was ardent contributor to student life. Mr. Capes could be seen almost every Friday at the football games cheering on SCITS blue squads throughout his career. There would be few who would disagree with the statement that Mr. Capes was a caring, thought provoking person who enlivened the halls of SCITS.

TEACHERS

LEAVING

The halls of SCITS were graced by the presence of James W. Hazzard for over 32 years. It is rare in this day and age for a person in any occupation to spend their entire career in the same location. But as anyone who was ever taught by Mr. Hazzard will attest, he was indeed a rare educator. Jim was active in every facet of school life from advisor, to coach, to fan. His friendly manner and high degree of professionalism will be missed by staff and students alike. We wish Mr. Hazzard all the best for a long and healthy retirement.

MR. HUNTER

TRUE BLUE

A smile, a wave,
Encouraging words in passing.
Mr. Hunter can truly
be called a Bomber.
He supported all of us everyday
from September to June.
Sporting events, Social events
or Academic events.
He was there cheering on the Blue.

There is a saying:
"Heroes get remembered but Legends never die"
Mr. Hunter is surely a legend because his memory
will remain
in the hearts of SCI
students in the years after he retires.
We'll miss you, Mr. Hunter.

Receiving our school yearbook is always a very special and exciting time. Sharing recorded memories of the happy times with friends and classmates, laughing at the pictures of faces made when the camera caught you unexpectedly, and getting friends to sign your yearbook, all contribute to this excitement.

After the sharing comes a time for quiet reflection. Students are seen leaving their friends and classmates to find a quiet place to look through the book and privately enjoy their personal memories and experiences.

The yearbook also brings a realization to graduating seniors that the picture they are looking at was their high school dance, basketball game or SCITS Revue.

With this recognition comes a certain empty feeling because they realize that their high school years have been the best years-so far.

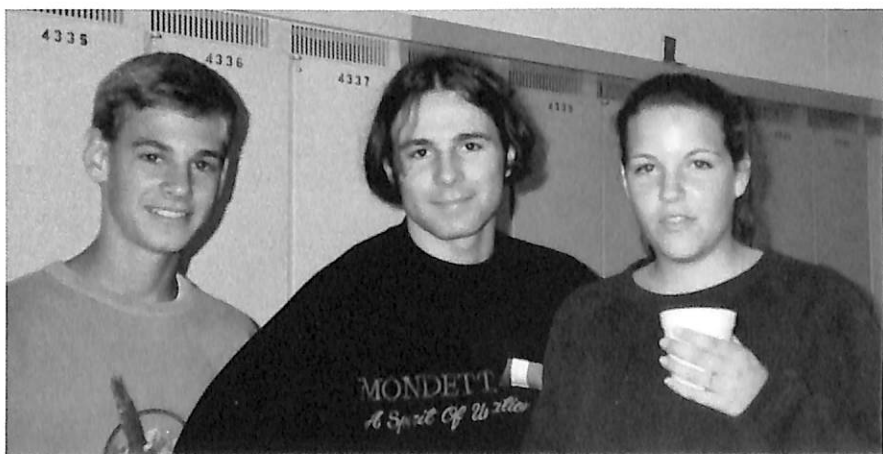

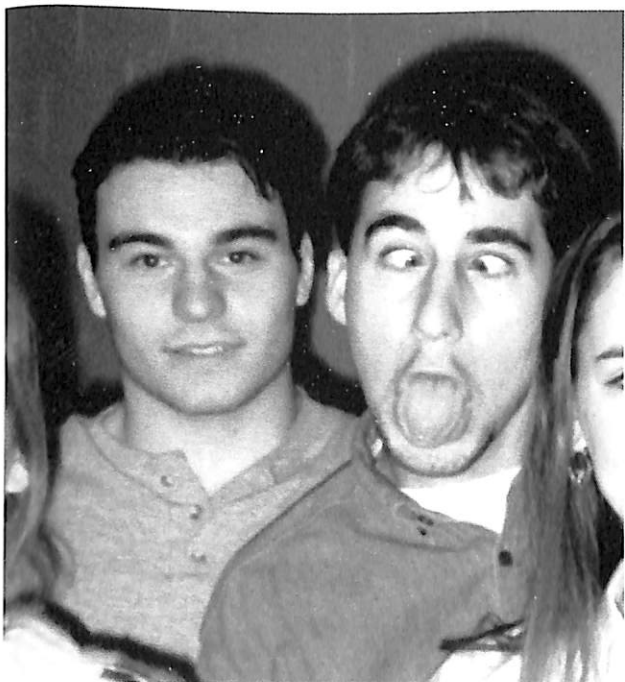

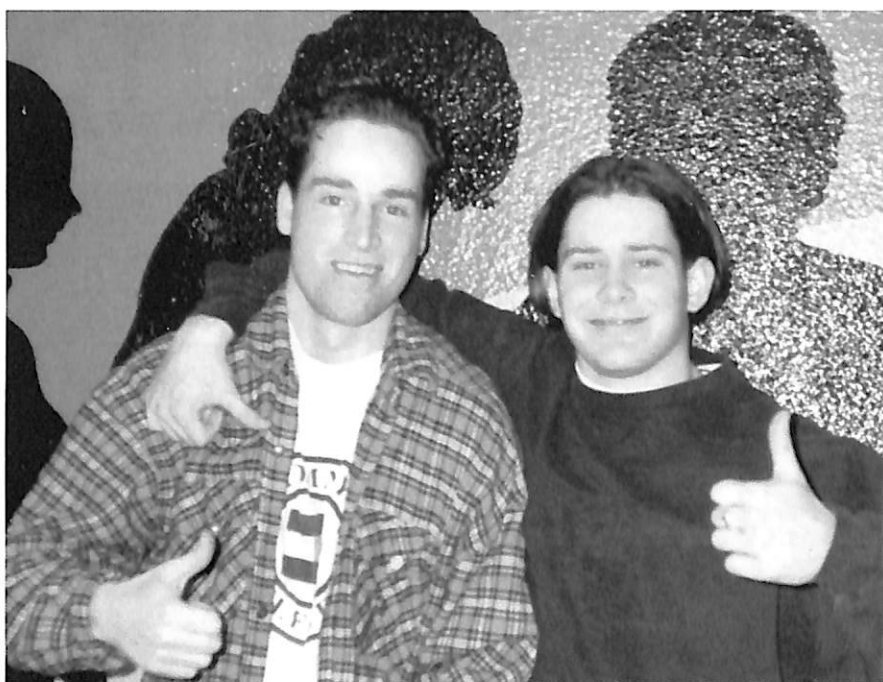

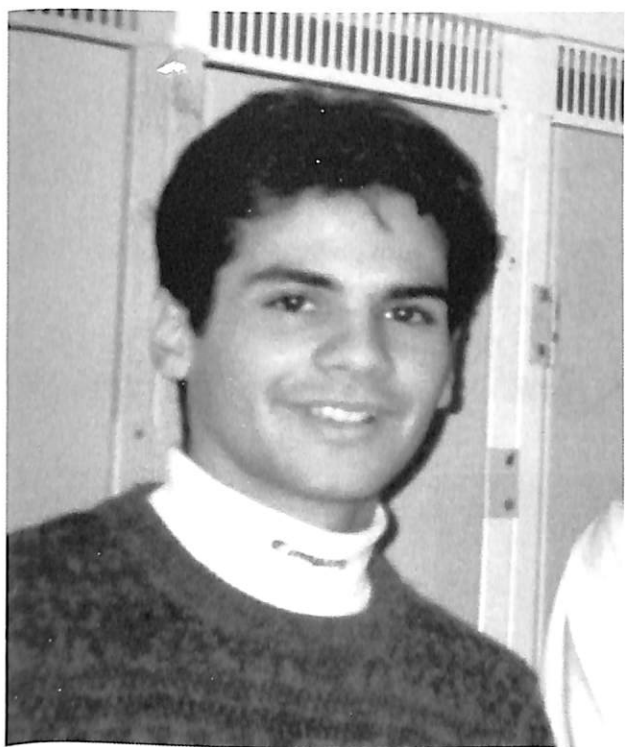

I feel much like a graduating senior. This is my last year as your principal as I am retiring.

Thus, I am also experiencing a certain empty feeling because I realize that sharing these years at S.C.I. & T.S. with you have been my best years-so far.

I wish each one of you happiness, success, and a life long desire to learn.

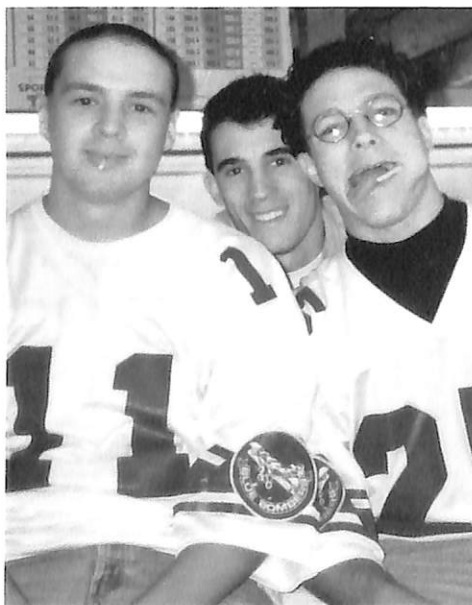

J.D. Hunter
